The U. S. State Department said the Cuban government has told the U. S. that its jet MIGs "probably fired in error" at the Floridian and that the Cuban government had "no intention" of shooting at the American ship. (AP Wirephoto)

Scranton Lists Sales Tax Add $1.125 Billion Budget Is Planned

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton will present a budget of approximately $1.125 billion for 1963-64 to the legislature next week and ask that the sales tax be extended to clothing to help raise revenue to balance it, sources here said Friday.

The budget recommendations would be approximately $8 million higher than present appropriations of $1.034 billion, the source said, and the governor was considering these alternate plans to raise the needed money:

1. Raise the 4 per cent sales tax to 4½ per cent and include cloth-

Explosion In Tucson Kills Six Persons

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—At least six persons were killed and 15 injured Friday as an explosion shattered a downtown Tucson cleaning plant.

The blast ripped apart the Supreme Cleaners' building which covered nearly half a block on the fringe of Tucson's downtown area.

Thirty-seven persons were reported in the building when the blast occurred at 11:06 a. m.

Harris Salonic, who owned the cleaning establishment with a brother, Stanley, was seriously injured. Stanley Salonic was out of the city.

Employees said the explosion apparently came from the steam boiler room in the dry-cleaning area of the plant.

Killed in the blast were Martin Schwelms, 52; Cecilia Aros, 19; Vedula Kingrey, 33; Carmen Toar, 32; and Frances Edward Conyers, 41, all of Tucson.

The other body has not been identified.

Moscow Scoffs At U. S. Tale

MOSCOW (AP) — Scoffing at U. S. disclaimers of Cuban commando strikes, the Soviet government demanded Friday that Washington foot the damages for an exile raid that crippled the Soviet freighter Baku.

A Soviet protest note handed to the U. S. Embassy also suggested, without specifying, that Moscow is considering providing armed escort for its vessels in Cuban waters.

Note Of Protest
A State Department spokesman in Washington rejected the Soviet protest as "totally unacceptable."

The note, second Moscow protest this week against raids on its ships, came only a few hours after the State Department said two unidentified jet planes fired on a U. S. cargo ship Thursday night in international waters off Cuba. The planes appeared to be Soviet-built MIG jets, Washington sources said. The ship was not hit, and the Cuban government said later its planes "probably fired in error" on the vessel.

Exile raiders attacked the Baku at dawn Tuesday in the north Cuban port of Caibarien. Moscow said the strike came as the vessel was preparing to sail with a load of sugar. The Havana press added the charge that the raiders were directed to their target by U. S. reconnaissance planes.

Bill For Damages
The Soviet protest, injecting the new element of American compensation, said the bill for the damages "will be presented to the government of the U. S. A. when it has been determined." Moscow has said a blast blew a big hole in the ship.

The note, delivered to the U. S. Embassy, said the Baku and other attacks on Soviet vessels "are not accidental and isolated actions but planned provocations directed from a single center on U. S. territory."

The protest reviewed previous Soviet charges that the exile raiders could not operate without U. S. help and observed sarcastically:

"It is true that statements are made in the U. S. A. with a view to suggesting that the attacks of the Cuban counterrevolutionaries, which are reminiscent of the distant times of the maritime brigandage of the pirates, are not being accomplished from the territory of the United States.

But the question arises: Whence then are these handi raids being carried out? Perhaps from Europe?

Examine Question
"The Soviet government cannot ignore these provocations and has been compelled to examine the question of taking relevant measures to insure the safety of Soviet merchantmen going to Cuba."

In a protest two days ago, Moscow complained of the shelling by anti-Castro forces of the Soviet freighter Lgov on March 17.

Cubans Admit Soviet-Built MIGs 'Fired In Error' On U. S. Vessel

Raiding Tactics Posing Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—The latest Cuban crisis, which had seemed to be building up to a possible new Soviet-U. S. confrontation, cooled off Friday. The drop in tension came after Fidel Castro's government said its Soviet-built MIGs "probably fired in error" on the U. S. cargo ship Floridian on Thursday.

Still confronting the Kennedy administration, however, was the problem of what if anything it can do to stop hit-and-run raids on Cuba by anti-Castro refugees.

Formal Demand
These have roiled U. S.-Soviet relations to the point where Moscow formally demanded Friday that Washington foot the damages for an attack by exile commandos that crippled the Soviet freighter Baku in the Cuban port of Caibarien on Tuesday.

President Kennedy — whose administration has disavowed such raids as irresponsible, deplorable and likely to do more harm than good — met for an hour Friday afternoon with a blue ribbon panel of his National Security Council. It was believed Cuba was discussed extensively.

The Castro government's swift explanation for the passes at the motor ship Floridian came as a surprise, since the bearded leader is more known for bellicose statements.

The vessel, en route from Puerto Rico to Miami with a piggyback load of food-carrying refrigerator trucks, was about 20 miles off the north Cuban coast and about 200 miles from Key West, when two dark-green MIGs swooped out of the sun. The warplanes sprayed cannon shot close to the bow and stern of the Floridian.

"This couldn't be happening to us," was the first amazed reaction of the Floridian's captain, Curtis Olson.

But his radioman quickly got off an SOS to the Coast Guard at Miami, whence it was relayed on a "hot line" to the Boca Chica Naval Air Station, at Key West.

U. S. Fighters Appear
After what seemed an eternity to the Floridian's crew—actually it was 35 minutes, they said—the U. S. fighters appeared on the scene but the MIGs were gone by then.

According to a State Department account, the incident was preceded and followed by diplomatic messages from Cuba—messages remarkable for their speed since they had to go through Swiss channels. The United States and Cuba are not on direct speaking terms.

The Havana government messaged Washington that its planes had spotted a "suspect" ship flying the American flag 25 miles northeast of Cayo Prigoso in Las Villas province. Cuba inquired whether the U. S. flag was being legitimately flown.

Before Washington received the message, the MIGs shot at the Floridian. Then, the State Department said, the Castro government sent a second message saying "that the MIGs probably fired in error and that there had been no intention on the part of the Cuban government to shoot at the Floridian."

The State Department added that Cuba is being asked "for a full explanation of this matter."

Owners of the Floridian, the South Atlantic & Caribbean Line, Inc., New York, asked the President to supply air protection for its Caribbean operations. If this cannot be done, the owners asked the government to place anti-aircraft guns on the Floridian and a sister ship, the New Yorker.

There were some grave comments in Congress. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., expressed fear "we are inching toward a conflict" over Cuba. He advocated unified backing for the President as he struggles with the problem.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called the Floridian incident an "irritating" one and said "our planes ought to go after them and return their fire."

New Testimony Released From TFX Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators released testimony of an Air Force colonel Friday casting fresh doubt on the Defense Department's TFX warplane contract award. At the same time, they made public new claims by a civilian official further supporting the decision.

The censored transcript of testimony taken secretly Thursday from Col. John L. Gregory showed the officer repudiated statements he had signed which tended to support the department decision turning the $6.5-billion job toward General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex.

Keystone Shortway Bids Are Received

In Boston Hotel Fire 4 Persons Die, 26 Are Injured

BOSTON (AP)—A before-dawn fire Friday swept the Sherry Biltmore Hotel on Massachusetts Avenue taking four lives and injuring at least 26. Firemen rescued nearly 100 guests over ladders.

The dead included a young couple from Quito, Ecuador. Their trip here was to get surgical help for their daughter Maria Eleana, 5½, who is awaiting surgery for a congenital dislocated hip at Massachusetts General Hospital. They were: Fabian Jijon, 39, and his wife, Lola, 34.

Selma Hyman, 50, a legal secretary who lived at the hotel, also perished. A fourth body was identified as that of Seymour R. Stone, 36, of Cambridge.

Cause Undetermined
Cause of the fire was undetermined. The damage was estimated from $100,000 to $300,000.

Among the rescued were members of the cast of a road company of "The Sound of Music." All escaped injury.

Bill O'Brien, the stage manager of Lansing, Mich., said it was the fourth hotel fire the company has experienced.

"We've had fires in our hotels in Columbus, Ohio; Minneapolis, Minn., and a couple of weeks ago in Baltimore. But none was as bad as this one," he said.

When the first fire apparatus arrived, guests were leaning from windows, gasping for air. Their cries for help could be heard mingling with the whine of fire and ambulance sirens.

Firemen shouted up to the trapped guests to stay where they were. No one jumped.

The fire was discovered just before 4 a.m. Flames and smoke were worse on the sixth floor where the dead were found.

The Sherry Biltmore was an apartment house for 50 years before it was converted into a hotel 10 years ago.

Oral Vaccine To Be Given In County

Simons said the places of distribution of the vaccine will be announced later.

Similar programs are either underway or about to be launched in Wayne, Pike, Northampton and Lehigh Counties.

Preparation for Christ's Coming ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 13:1-14:9.

As Christ and His disciples came out of the temple on Tuesday of Holy Week one of the disciples admired the temple's beauty. Christ commented that the stones would not be left standing.—Mark 13:1-2.

When they had climbed to the top of the Mount of Olives, opposite the temple, Peter, James, John and Andrew drew Him aside and asked Him privately what He had meant and when it would happen.—Mark 13:3-4.

In a famous discourse He told them that after the Gospel was preached to all nations there would come a time of great tribulation, after which Christ would return in His glory and the elect be gathered.—Mark 13:5-27.

The previous Saturday evening, when He dined with Simon the leper, Mary of Bethany anointed Christ with a costly jar of ointment. Christ praised her for it.—Mark 14:1-9.

GOLDEN TEXT: Mark 13:33.

Sunday School Lesson

By N. SPEER JONES

THE so-called Olivet Discourse comprises the major part of today's lesson. This is the name given to the prophecies given by Christ on Tuesday of Holy Week as He sat on the Mount of Olives, the famous hill just opposite Jerusalem to the east. On the other side of the crest of this hill was Bethany.

Present for this discourse were only four of Christ's disciples—Peter, James, John and Andrew. It was precipitated by a remark made by one of his disciples as they all emerged from the temple, where Christ had just commended the poor woman for her donation to the treasury. One of the disciples remarked about the beauty of the stones and architecture of the temple, which was indeed the most magnificent on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean.

Jesus replied gloomily that not one of those beautiful stones would be left standing. It was the four disciples' request for illumination of that statement which led to the Olivet Discourse.

Christ's prophecy regarding the temple was fulfilled just 40 years later, in 70 A.D., when the temple and fortifications of Jerusalem were leveled by the Roman general Titus in the Jewish War.

The events which Jesus predicted can be divided into three parts or phases—those occurring before the great tribulation (Mark 13:5-13), those during the tribulation (Mark 13:14-23) and those after the tribulation (Mark 13:24-27).

In the first, "rumors" of war means talk of war—and when has there been more than at the current time.

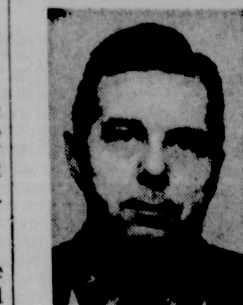

The great tribulation itself, which is to come, will include great desecration of religion—of the temple. This will be the worst period of tribulation since the beginning of man's history.

After this great tribulation, three events will occur. First, there will be great disturbances in the heavens, far greater than any thing man could produce with his space experiments. Secondly, Christ will return in power and glory. Thirdly, angels will be sent to gather God's elect.

Christ's prediction that all these things shall be accomplished before "this generation" shall pass away, has caused some difference of opinion among scholars. Generally it is held that this means the generation or nation or people of Israel, not any temporal period.

Over and over, in Matthew's account of this discourse, Christ exhorts His followers to watch constantly for the hour of His return. Mark is not repetitive in his recording of this exhortation, but does record it once. It does not mean that we are to try to ascertain the particular time of this return in advance, but rather that we should be eternally vigilant in our duties as Christians, so we will not be caught unaware, or spiritually asleep. Then we shall need no fear of the Lord's arrival.

The last event recorded in our lesson is one which chronologically took place several days earlier, the anointing of Jesus by Mary of Bethany on Saturday evening before Holy Week. On no other deed does Jesus ever bestow such praise.

"They also serve who only stand and wait." Not all of us can be champions of a cause or defenders of the faith. Our talents are varied and some of us haven't as yet discovered what talents we do have. Some may be men of action, others placid thinkers, still others just don't know what to do about anything.

We can all be of service to each other and to our fellow man. Helping others is following in His footsteps. Now this may not be the blame of heralding trumpets of great publicity, but in the quiet of your home you can help others beyond your greatest expectations. It is people like you and thousands of others who can change the way of life for countless more.

"Suffer the little children"—and you, me and the other fellow down the street can do so much for crippled children by simply opening an envelope, inserting a coin, or a few dollar bills, sealing the envelope and posting it back to the Monroe County Easter Seal campaign committee. So few of us can help so many!

The other night I watched four wonderful women devoting their time and talents for the counting of the returns of Easter Seals. Gay chatter and laughter filled the small room, for they worked with a labor of love and a willingness unbounded.

The merry attitude would stop from time to time when an envelope would be opened to reveal a pathetic note such as "Please send my name off your list, as I already contribute to many other causes"—or—"I do not wish to contribute."

Oh, how I wish that these poor deluded folk who could so easily refuse such a cause as this, could tell it direct to the small occupants of hospital beds whose shattered and twisted limbs need expensive braces before they can leave the world at child level again. I wish that these people could wipe away the tears that run down children's faces as they watch "normal" kids play ball—and run—and skip—and jump.

I have watched many such children, my own included. I have said "Bless you" when the Crippled Children's Association extended aid in a time of need. Your Easter Seals do help, and can keep right on helping wherever the hand of affliction is touching a child.

Easter Seals are a sure way of sharing the love that is God given to all our hearts. Not one of us is devoid of love, sometimes we are a bit selfish and refuse to nourish love and let expand and overflow into the lives of others. We can only know love by giving of ourselves.

"For God so LOVED the world that He GAVE His only begotten Son —" We are not asked to give to such a great extent as this, we have only to give of our substance or our talents to share in love.

If I have love, and my neighbor is in need and I need him not, then my love is a corrupt thing, and is not of God!

Dig into your desk and pull out that forgotten Easter Seal envelope. Fill it with love so that some child will know that he is not alone in his battle to straighten out his twisted limbs. God wants us to be abundant springs of brotherly love.

Helping crippled children is something that all of us can share in, whether our talents be great or small. In this cause we can all help, and in so doing enrich ourselves.

Umbrella pines shade the quiet, spacious courtyard of Rome's Brazilian Pontifical College. In one yellow stucco wing, on the second floor, dwells a wise, old man who is building new alignments among the world's churches.

He has shaken the walls of Roman Catholicism. He has raised new bridges with Protestantism and Eastern Orthodoxy. And his thin, bent figure looms large—and influential—at the Vatican Ecumenical Council, resuming this fall.

He is Augustin Cardinal Bea, SI, now in the United States this week for a Protestant-Catholic colloquium at Harvard Divinity School and for an address next Tuesday in Baltimore, Md.

A great German Biblical scholar, Cardinal Bea in his advanced years left the academic halls to become head of Rome's lately formed Secretariat of Christian Unity and to launch a fresh, bold push for closer ties among the churches.

"He set off shock waves, and they're still reverberating," commented an American priest, now teaching in Rome.

The cardinal is a warm, gracious man, with doughty cheer etched in his lined face. With him you feel in the presence of deep learning. Above his stooped shoulders his eyes shine with sagacity and purposefulness.

"Holy Scripture," he told me in a recent interview in Rome, "is the common basis for Catholics and non-Catholics."

The Bible—study of it, writing about it, teaching it—had been his full-time occupation until taking over his new post in 1960, and he regards that background as opening the door to his present work with other churches.

He said mutual misconceptions and differences in terminology often cause needless barriers between the churches.

"There are plain misunderstandings to be overcome," he said, "and there also are real problems."

Cardinal Bea's office forms the first official liaison with Protestantism since its break from Rome 400 years ago. A longtime friend of many non-Roman scholars, his last two years have been a tireless round of travel and conferences to strengthen interchurch ties.

The cardinal worked out the arrangements whereby Protestant and Orthodox observer-delegates attend the Vatican sessions and take part in consultations with groups of Catholic bishops and theologians.

While there can be no compromises in essential doctrinal truth, he said, there is a need to make interpretations clearer on both sides and remove misunderstandings that "encumber the path to unity."

All persons that have received Christian baptism, in or outside the Roman church, he emphasizes, are united to Christ and his mystical body and therefore are brothers, and to an extent, all part of Christ's church.

While the present council seeks only to prepare the way for eventual unity, he envisions in the future—when both Catholics and others are sufficiently ready for it—an actual "council of union."

Pocono Mountain Joint Schools

Last Saturday the highly touted debaters of Pocono Mountain Joint went to Kings College for the annual invitational debate. The District 7 champs walked off with eight wins out of 16 contests.

To bat a verbal 500 is a good record, and the team, under the coaching of A. J. Caprioli, has hopes of placing high in the state tournament in April at Penn State.

St. Francis Prep of Brooklyn won the tournament at Kings, but the Pocono seniors made a fine showing. Thirty teams from Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, and Virginia entered the Kings contest.

Next Saturday is the Purple and White debate contest, and today the team is at Marywood College for a contest.

The speech class under Caprioli has an opportunity to listen to job interviews in progress, it was announced yesterday.

The members of the class, with companies willing, can sit in while company interviewers are listening to job applicants, thus can get an idea of what is involved in putting oneself across in that situation.

The class will then give reports on their impressions and the techniques they have picked up at the interviews.

When 'Art' Is Not Art

The motion pictures in the last six years have decided to go dishabile to incite ticket sales. The loosening of the movie censorship code played only a part in undrapping the starlets.

Such pictures as "The Immoral Mr. Teas," "Not Tonight, Henry," and the slew of quasi-informative nudist camp 'documentaries' would have been unthinkable a few years ago.

Somehow one can't feel that it is entirely up to the vicissitudes of the Hayes Office whether the screen flickers with bare bottoms or coverup clothing are censorable.

There must be a demand for these movies, it is obvious. There is a demand, there always was a demand, and there always will be a demand. Show enough skin, and dollar bills will peel off bank-rolls as fast as the silk scarves off a latter-day Salome.

Something in the consciousness of the public broke within the past ten years. The little machine that flashed red when necklines dipped too low went on the fritz sometime after the Korean War and is still inoperative.

The public consciousness, that used to gasp at the sight of Hedy Lamarr taking a bath, or rise in anger at such an innocuous effort as "The Moon is Blue," relaxed.

It was like the little boy taking his finger out of the dike. Girly magazines, once printed on cheap paper and selling for small change, now seemed the forefront of literary and sophisticated publications.

Movies with barrels of décolletage hanging all over the place began to be shown in the better houses. Art for the feeble-minded became synonymous with nudity.

The flood burst upon the American scene with a startling rapidity. Once publishers and producers knew they could "get away with it," they began to film the bodies beautiful in earnest.

What triggered the eruption? No one cared too much anymore. You can't lay this naked baby upon anyone's doorstep but the public.

Preachers can admonish all they want from the pulpit; when nobody listens, when no one cares, the "art" movies are the result.

Form—the human form—can be art; it can be nothing more than the human form. Presentation in an incident, skillfully executed can make it art.

These movies are tantalizers, not art. Very few even lay claim to being art, but the panders of the films in the towns where they make the money feel the need to label their presentations something more acceptable than "erotic film being shown today."

Not that the exposed figure should be censored out of art forms—freedom in this sphere is essential to the production of true art.

But there will always be the cheapies. They will always take advantage of a liberty to turn it into a license.

It is not the solution of the problem to censor the life out of a medium; the solution lies in the education of the many to quality in the medium. Selectivity on the part of the public will cause atrophy of the girly movies and magazines because they will not make money.

To realize the responsibility to choose quality—this choice is a definite responsibility of the individual to help the community, and is not the responsibility of the community—is the first step to realize what is quality is a lifework.

Praises Mrs. DeRocco's Work

Editor, The Daily Record:

I have just left one of Monroe County's most eminent and valuable citizens. She is Marcia Clapp DeRocco, chairman of the Pocono Art Center, a woman who has earned and deserves the respect, admiration and appreciation of every member of the citizenry.

For in truth, this "cock-eyed dreamer" has done more, and tried to do more, for this community than most personalities of wider recognition. Marcia DeRocco is an artist. Not a small time artist either, but one who has been awarded citations and applause throughout the United States for her activity, especially as an eminent sculptor.

She also dares to dream. To dream big, and not for her own personal betterment as too many of us do, but for the welfare and benefit of the community in which she lives. Her attitude is the acme of civic duty and social consciousness. If there were but more citizens as unselfishly devoted to the advancement of the Stroudsburg, this area would soon realize its potential place as a leading community in the state.

The cultural resources of the Poconos are overwhelming, and they await expansion and development. Marcia DeRocco is one who dreams of materializing the vast wealth which lies within our realm.

But her unflinching efforts are often repaid only with senseless rejection, petty jealousy, snide commentary, and opposition. Here is a woman who has ventured to untap the unlimited resources of her human imagination, and then work steadfastly to untap the material resources of our community.

Some of her dreams have been successfully actualized, and can serve to evidence her value to this community. Perhaps her most significant contribution to date has been her restitution of an historic old stone house into a beautiful and charming art center where the inquisitive from all walks of life and at all ages can come and have the whole realm of art opened to them through expert tutelage. The art center offers instruction and appreciation of weaving, drama, conversation, speech, dance, painting, sculpture, ceramics, etc., etc.

The art center also brings hundreds of pieces of quality art in view of the general public and offers it to the community's residents as a free service. Of special note are the exhibits underwritten by the local banks which are displayed in their lobbies and then rotated throughout the schools.

The center also holds periodic showings of both local and imported paintings of superior excellence. As far as music, the art center sponsors a chamber music festival at Tamiment every summer featuring the Curtis String Quartet, truly one of the outstanding chamber ensembles in the country. The center has also sponsored outdoor folkings, several recitals, and various concerts during its brief four-year existence.

The foreign language conversational groups are but another project which afford the interested student a chance to practice and learn a foreign tongue. Add Helen Harrison's displays of South American art and culture, puppet shows, several dramatic productions, dance recitals, and innumerable craft shows, and one has to be totally ignorant if he cannot see the value of such an institution designed to contribute so significantly to the cultural atmosphere of the Stroudsburg.

(And let's face it, the intellectual climate of Monroe County could stand a few more of these type contributions.) These are a few of the gifts which Marcia DeRocco, her devoted Board, and persevering aides, have unselfishly given to the community as a whole.

But the contributions which the Pocono Art Center gives to its individual members are even more impressive. For here teenagers can find an educational hobby. The problems of enthusiastic childhood, and boring older age are answered with a valuable pastime.

Here all men can expand their horizons and continue a liberal education for themselves. Here youth are exposed to the wonderful world of art and taught to appreciate it—a gift they can enjoy for the rest of their lives. Here any man can equally enjoy and benefit from the "re-creational" and inspirational qualities of art.

The Pocono Art Center is not created for Marcia DeRocco and other artists, but she has created it for you, for us, the average individual to enjoy and reap benefit from. Here is a devoted, benevolent, and eminent woman and institution, overly-anxious to give a priceless gift; and too many turn away out of ignorance, fear, shame, or pride and refuse the gift without even understanding its worthy nature. I urge that each of you investigate the Pocono Art Center and understand and support it in its valuable works for the community.

I should like to point out one more thing. If this woman and her dreams can do this much to the cultural waste-land of the Poconos in four years, and with little or no cooperation at all; imagine, what this individual could do for Monroe County in the future, with cooperation, appreciation, and assistance. Mrs. DeRocco has sacrificed great sums of personal funds, many desirable comforts, and many months of hard, discouraging labor in an effort to realize her dreams for the Poconos. We all owe her a debt of gratitude and cooperation.

She has unselfishly worked for seven tedious months to realize plans for renovating the East Stroudsburg railroad station from a dirty eyesore into an attractive edifice to present a pleasant impression to visitors. She has negotiated for three years to try to bring the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, recently voted the outstanding in the world, to the Poconos for a summer music festival. She has dreamed for four years of moving the Pocono Art Center out of her private home into its own building with adequate facilities, staff, and space.

She dreams these dreams for us, Monroe County. And they are not mere idle dreams, for she has calculations, drawings, and facts to show in black and white how easily these dreams could become a reality. She offers these to us also, my friends. And we reject them likewise, because we ourselves, are afraid to dream, afraid to imagine, and afraid to think about what potential we have, and realize what we could do with it.

I thank God for Marcia DeRocco, and men and women like her who dream and think, for the real hope for a better world, and a better community lies within them. It is they who make the future of this community a worthwhile aim for its ambitious youth. But if these hopes and dreams are to become a reality, they must first become the inspired purpose and reverent task of each and every one of us.

JIM WILLIAMS,
East Stroudsburg.

May I discuss at some length the possible misconceptions as to the scope and nature of the Pocono Mountains Music Festival.

The suggestion is not new or current. Actually several years ago the thought of a music festival was the subject of several discussions between Horace Heller of the Stroudsburg Daily Record, George Clovis of High Point Inn, Howard Marshall and me.

What is the true story concerning the so-called Newport riots and can such an incident occur here?

The State of Rhode Island has a liquor curfew law. All bars close at 1:00 a.m. Because of the Newport Festival and the many thousands who came into the community to spend money, the curfew was not enforced. It was possible to buy liquor for off premises consumption and beer in cans.

Sometime in 1960, around 9:30 in the evening while a concert was in progress with an attendance of fourteen thousand, a number of individuals, many of whom were college students "from good families" and colleges, harassed the police in an area away from the concert area. There then occurred a series of Keystone Cop chases. No one in the festival area even knew that the so-called riots were even taking place. Some time around 11:00 o'clock the Director of the Festival was asked by the police authorities to keep the Festival going until 2:00 o'clock in the morning so that the so-called unruly, the college boys "from good families" could be collected by the local police.

The statement by the Newport authorities issued to the press that the so-called rioters were disappointed ticket purchasers was absolutely false. In the first place the tickets for the Festival were reserved seats. Secondly, the Festival had started very promptly and was already in progress when the incidents occurred.

As a result of the mishandling of the situation by the Newport authorities the final concert was cancelled and the Board of Directors of the Newport Festival was dissolved.

Editor, The Daily Record:
A sad omission gives food for thought: On the morning following the rescue of Helen Klaben and Ralph Flores, NBC radio gave a moving account of the miraculous survival of these plane crash victims after seven weeks on a high frozen mountain, and described how Flores was a Mormon lay preacher, how he had a Bible with him, how they read it aloud to each other from cover to cover, and how the conviction that they would be rescued had never left them.

On the same morning appeared in newspapers an Associated Press account with all the details, but no mention whatever of the important faith element in this great survival.

This withholding of credit where credit is due reminds us that he whom we deny, will also deny us.

JOVAN DE ROCOCO

Editor, The Daily Record:
Cheers for Mrs. Arthur Frantz on her letter chastising the "Brinkley Report" on Alaska.

My husband, Cdr. John Gowans, was executive officer of the air detachment at Annette Island, Alaska. We extended for four years (1956-1960) although only an 18 month tour of duty was required.

A high percentage of the natives on Annette were college graduates and the mayor was more dignified, more intelligent, better educated and more qualified to execute the functions of his office than nine out of ten of his counterparts in the 48.

Why the report chose to depict Alaska as a backward and uneducated territory is added proof of the unreliability of so called news coverage.

It was a great disappointment to us as our daughter was born there. We traveled extensively and made many friends. Incidentally we became Elk members of the Ketchikan Lodge and never did we encounter anything like the ridiculous farce which was presented to the television audience.

I hope, you can help me out with some information, concerning "Fresh Air Children."

I would like to have a child for a couple of weeks this summer, but do not know how to go about it.

Is there any organizations who handle this matter? I would be grateful for any help you can give me.

Some time around 11:00 o'clock the Director of the Festival was asked by the police authorities to keep the Festival going until 2:00 o'clock in the morning so that the so-called unruly, the college boys "from good families" could be collected by the local police.

The statement by the Newport authorities issued to the press that the so-called rioters were disappointed ticket purchasers was absolutely false. In the first place the tickets for the Festival were reserved seats. Secondly, the Festival had started very promptly and was already in progress when the incidents occurred.

As a result of the mishandling of the situation by the Newport authorities the final concert was cancelled and the Board of Directors of the Newport Festival was dissolved.

Editor, The Daily Record:
A sad omission gives food for thought: On the morning following the rescue of Helen Klaben and Ralph Flores, NBC radio gave a moving account of the miraculous survival of these plane crash victims after seven weeks on a high frozen mountain, and described how Flores was a Mormon lay preacher, how he had a Bible with him, how they read it aloud to each other from cover to cover, and how the conviction that they would be rescued had never left them.

On the same morning appeared in newspapers an Associated Press account with all the details, but no mention whatever of the important faith element in this great survival.

This withholding of credit where credit is due reminds us that he whom we deny, will also deny us.

Cheers for Mrs. Arthur Frantz on her letter chastising the "Brinkley Report" on Alaska.

My husband, Cdr. John Gowans, was executive officer of the air detachment at Annette Island, Alaska. We extended for four years (1956-1960) although only an 18 month tour of duty was required.

A high percentage of the natives on Annette were college graduates and the mayor was more dignified, more intelligent, better educated and more qualified to execute the functions of his office than nine out of ten of his counterparts in the 48.

Why the report chose to depict Alaska as a backward and uneducated territory is added proof of the unreliability of so called news coverage.

It was a great disappointment to us as our daughter was born there. We traveled extensively and made many friends. Incidentally we became Elk members of the Ketchikan Lodge and never did we encounter anything like the ridiculous farce which was presented to the television audience.

Is there any organizations who handle this matter? I would be grateful for any help you can give me.

May I discuss at some length the possible misconceptions as to the scope and nature of the Pocono Mountains Music Festival.

The suggestion is not new or current. Actually several years ago the thought of a music festival was the subject of several discussions between Horace Heller of the Stroudsburg Daily Record, George Clovis of High Point Inn, Howard Marshall and me.

What is the true story concerning the so-called Newport riots and can such an incident occur here?

The State of Rhode Island has a liquor curfew law. All bars close at 1:00 a.m. Because of the Newport Festival and the many thousands who came into the community to spend money, the curfew was not enforced. It was possible to buy liquor for off premises consumption and beer in cans.

Sometime in 1960, around 9:30 in the evening while a concert was in progress with an attendance of fourteen thousand, a number of individuals, many of whom were college students "from good families" and colleges, harassed the police in an area away from the concert area. There then occurred a series of Keystone Cop chases. No one in the festival area even knew that the so-called riots were even taking place. Atom Too Much With Us

Fifteen years ago, when he was head of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, anything that David Lilienthal had to say about the uses of the atom was front-page stuff.

Ten years ago, when he had left the government service to become a Wall Street man, Lilienthal could still command a big audience. His conversion as a free lance publicist to the idea that most things could be safely left to private enterprise had a shock effect that was good for dramatic headlines in the early Nineteen Fifties.

Today, however, Lilienthal is like a thousand other publicists: he has to be satisfied with casual notice. And so the three lectures which he recently delivered at Princeton, New Jersey, bearing on the current status of the "atom," made no particular splash.

This is a shame, for what Lilienthal had to say at Princeton was informed with the sort of common sense that is all too uncommon.

As to what might be called the "war head atom," Lilienthal attacked the "mythology" of nuclear disarmament with refreshing reference to the history of the Nineteen Twenties and the Nineteen Thirties, when Britain and the United States were cutting back on battleships vis-a-vis Japan.

What happened in the wake of this disarmament was that the Japanese got a relatively free hand to do what they liked on the mainland of Asia without fear of interruption from the naval might of the West.

And Germany, using glider training to produce a crop of young aviation enthusiasts, eventually created the Nazi Luftwaffe when the victorious

Pen Argyl Boy, 7, Shows Determination Big Factor

IF YOUNGER children got formal grades at the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, Philadelphia, an "A" for determination would go to a seven-year-old Pen Argyl boy, his teacher says.

The lad is Daniel Piccerillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent M. Piccerillo, of 512 Broad St.

According to Mrs. Anna S. Haas, determination is Danny's outstanding characteristic.

"Danny," she says, "is more deaf than any of the others in his class, yet he does well, keeps up nicely — and is well behaved."

One of the exceptions in his behavior, but also an example of his determination, came the day in early spring when he "borrowed" a classmate's bicycle and took a ride around PSD's rolling 42-acre campus, to prove he could master the vehicle.

Patient Teaching

The Pennsylvania School for the Deaf couples electronic aids with the patient teaching so necessary in speech and lip reading instruction. Group hearing equipment and amplified recordings are part of the procedure.

After a child has built up vocabulary and learned to read, he is ready for the same subjects that are taught in "hearing" schools.

PSD's vocational school offers training in such trades as printing, woodworking, machine shop practices and power sewing to supplement the academic work.

Or, a student may concentrate on academic courses that prepare him for Gallaudet College, in Washington, D.C., only college for the deaf in the world.

Troop 95 Holds Court Of Honor

SWIFTWATER Boy Scout Troop 95 held a Court of Honor at the Paradise Municipal Building recently.

Lie Scout Wayne Curnoles led the opening ceremony. Eagle Scout Alex Whitlow, assisted by Life Scout Richard Leies, performed the Tenderfoot Investiture, inducting nine new members into the troop.

Other Scout awards were presented by Carl Hamblin.

Skits were performed by the Eagle and Beaver patrols. Other entertainment included singing by Bill Saganich and a film on Pennsylvania.

The closing ceremony was handled by Scouts George Kutudis, Joe Caliguri, Gary Stiff and Billy Wright.

Guests were William Vincent, area scout executive; Charles Whitlow, president, Delaware Valley Council, and Mrs. Margaret Nelson, president of the Paradise Community Center, sponsoring organization.

1963 Committee

The troop's committee for 1963 are Horace Stiff, Bill Wright and Bill Brownfield.

Approximately 65 persons attended the meeting, which was preceded by a covered dish supper.

Next big event for the Swiftwater troop is a trip to the Shrine Circus in Kingston, April 6.

Area Man At Drycleaning Convention

J. ROBERT Tomko of Mountain Cleaners is attending the annual convention of the national Institute of Drycleaning in Washington, D.C., March 28 to 31.

Tomko has been joined by more than 15,000 drycleaners from all parts of the world at one of the largest drycleaning conventions and exhibits in the industry's history. The exhibit occupied 68,000 square feet at the D.C. Armory.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, Democrat from New York and Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin, of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service were key speakers on the opening day of the convention at the Statler Hilton Hotel. Drycleaning industry leaders and fashion experts also discussed the role of drycleaning in the sixties.

Tomko also visited the headquarters of the National Institute of Drycleaning in Silver Spring, Md., and toured a new model drycleaning plant.

Decide What You Want Before Hunting First Job

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
It's almost time for first-job time!

In fact, in only a matter of weeks now, many of you who've never worked at a full-time job before will close the door on classrooms and part-time or temporary jobs and open the door to a brand-new career.

Getting Ready

How ready are you to do this? And what are some things you can do in April to get ready for job-hunting in June?

As a kickoff, you can start by narrowing down your main interest or major to a somewhat specific area within the broad field in which you'd like to work.

Creative Career

For example, if you're an English major or a high school senior with a flair for words who's thinking a shade too vaguely, perhaps, about a creative career in business, does advertising or publishing appeal to you most, to mention two possibilities?

On the other hand, if you've taken a business course and intend to break into working by the shorthand-typing route (and we hope you'll get that typing, no matter where your interest lies!), your own specific: kickoff will be starting today to determine your broad field of interest — banking, insurance, retailing, science, graphic arts or what you will.

Work In Your Field

It doesn't cost you any more to start from the beginning in the area of interest in which you'd ultimately like to work.

Once you've decided these things, learn, realistically, what beginning jobs exist in your field of interest. Naturally, you have to practice flexibility in seeking and taking your first job. But you'll be one step ahead of the majority if you know in general what you want and what is actually available.

To expose yourself to this kind of in-the-know, start this week haunting your school or town library for books and pamphlets in your career field.

At the same time check the classified job ads in the newspapers to keep tabs on the supply and demand in your field. By doing this you'll learn what the job you want is usually labeled and what its requirements are.

If you're going to need further training for the job, determine when and how you'll get it.

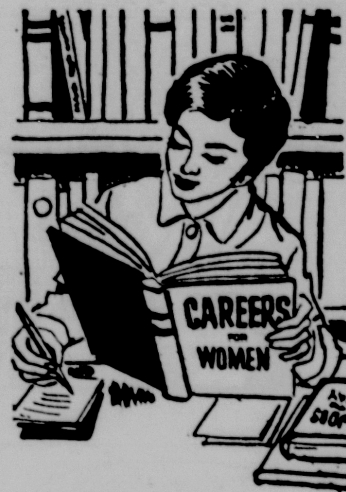

Get Good Advice

Besides this, talk to people who work in the field and digest their practical and experienced advice on beginning jobs.

While you're doing these things, make sure you start immediately telling everyone you talk to that you'll be on the job market in June. Sometimes this leads you to people who may hear of leads for you.

Finally, register with your school or college placement office if one exists. Then check with that office periodically to learn whether any jobs are listed for which you might like to apply.

(If you'd like to know where you can get, for 35 cents, a helpful booklet entitled "Looking Toward That First Job", send me your request and a stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of this newspaper.)

Bushkill Guild Plans Egg Hunt For Village Kids

Mrs. Wesley Dickson is chairman with Mrs. Robert Vandercar as co-chairman. Donations of colored or uncolored eggs or toward the children's treats will be accepted by any guild member. Fold in chopped nuts. Pour into an ungreased 10 inch tube pan and bake for 35 minutes in a 325 oven. Increase temperature to 350 and bake for 10 or 15 minutes longer. Remove from oven and invert pan on bottle. Let hang until completely cool; remove from pan, and serve plain or ice with favorite frosting flavored with maple flavoring instead of vanilla.

SWITZERLAND? No Kresgeville, where the first completely new resort to be built in the Poconos in the last five years, is completed.

It is called Honeymoon Hideaway with Swiss design in both the main lounge and the individual chalets which feature open-beam cathedral ceilings.

New Resort Facilities Ready For Pocono Spring

Continuing the new construction boom in the resorts of the Poconos, the first completely new resort to be built in the area in the last five years will open at Kresgeville. Called Honeymoon Hideaway, it is designed principally for newlyweds and young couples.

Many of the resorts have also added new construction for the coming season in all sections of the Poconos.

A covered kissing bridge, billed as the most unusual covered bridge in Pennsylvania, has been constructed at the Birchwood Lodge, East Stroudsburg, in the eastern Poconos. In addition they have completed five early American Plymouth cottages featuring picture windows and a view overlooking Eagle Lake.

Cove Haven, Lakeville, in the northern Poconos, has a new filtered pool which has been designed as a huge heart and landscaped with an arrow going through the center of the swimming area.

At Strickland's Mountain Inn at Mount Pocono, they are now offering their new Honeymoon Mansions which are actually a full size house complete with landscaped grounds and individual parking places.

Family Fare

Of particular interest to parents vacationing with families are the new coin operated automatic laundry and dryer units and ironing boards that have been installed at White Beauty View Resort at Lake Wallenpaupack in Greentown.

Many other Pocono resorts are also improving and adding facilities for the family market. For example, Abeel's Hearthstone Cottages, East Stroudsburg, has just built a children's playground, a recreation barn with fire place and cleared several woodland hiking trails leading up to mountain views. They have also built five new family cottages complete with electric heating and fireplaces.

For those families with fishermen, young or old, Henryville Lodge in Henryville, has an ideal set-up with its own trout stream which is stocked weekly, and a new pavilion and playground equipment for a day camp conducted by three trained counselors. Likewise they have added six new units to their Apple Hill Cabanas section.

Of interest to the younger set will be the new boating and fishing pond at Onawa Lodge in Mount Pocono, as well as a new wading pool at Hillcrest Farms in Stroudsburg.

Golf and Games

Pocono resorts, recognizing the growing interest in physical fitness and active sports among vacationers, are continuing to expand and add new recreation facilities. Golf probably remains the number one sport in the Poconos.

Shawnee Inn, Shawnee-On-Deleware, has added nine additional holes to its course making it a full twenty-seven hole championship course, scheduled to open June 1.

Guests at the Robbins Farm, Saylorsburg, may sharpen their golf game with their new driving range and putting green facilities. Furthermore, Pocono Mountain Inn, Cresco, Pa., has installed a new pee-wee golf course, a special game room for billiards and cards and has created a unique art gallery featuring original paintings by local artists which is open to the public.

Merry Hill Lodge, Cresco, has enlarged its ninety foot rifle range and built six new honeymoon out-tages. Finally, a new guest recreation room has been added by the Mountain Lake House, Marshalls Creek, as well as special locker rooms and lounge areas designed specifically for early and late season high school fraternal and sports outings.

The Hamlen Airport in East Stroudsburg — which offers visitors and tourists scenic air tours of the Poconos throughout the year — has improved its landing facilities by grading and reseeding an additional ten acre area.

Pocono resorts adding additional guest accommodations and increasing their dining facilities include Skyline Inn, Mount Pocono, The Holiday Glen, Swiftwater, Garman's Motor Court, Trafton, the Antlers, Swiftwater, and the Norway House at Mount Pocono.

You Don't Pay Patent Fees For These Three New Cakes

By Linda Piper
Daily Record Home Economist

Billy informed me the other day that when HE gets big he's going to invent an automatic tooth-brusher and face-washer for busy people like he is. I told him that was fine, and he might as well include a back-of-the-ear scrubber, too.

I guess everyone has dreams of inventing something; when it comes to inventing recipes, I just don't have it. Which is why over the past eleven years I have tried dozens (maybe hundreds) of chocolate cake recipes.

Bill and I have never agreed on chocolate cake. It was drilled into me that cakes should be light, but he wants a heavy, moist chocolate cake.

Well, I finally made one that got the response I've dreamed of: "Now, there's a chocolate cake!" It's taken eleven years, and I have Lil' Nuts to thank for the recipe. I must admit, though it isn't light and fluffy, it is delicious. As it is very "chocolatey", I prefer it with a white icing, but if your family is way out on chocolate, frost it with a creamy chocolate icing. When Lil gave me the recipe I thought she had forgotten the shortening, but it doesn't have any, and I think it's the first cake I've ever made without butter, shortening, or oil.

Lil's Chocolate Fudge Cake

4 squares unsweetened chocolate

4 eggs, separated

1 cup flour

1 teaspoon salt

1 cup milk

1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder

2 cups sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate and milk together

ESSC Aide Stresses Need For Cancer Education

DR. GEORGE Ockershausen, chairman of the Schools Division of the Public Education Committee on Cancer for Monroe County, told the Monroe County Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Thursday night of the need for educating the young people of Monroe County in the area of cancer prevention and detection.

He stressed education rather than legislation as the means of combating the increase in the number of deaths in the country from all forms of cancer.

Particular emphasis was placed on the need to prevent young people from beginning smoking rather than the attempt to break the habit once it is started.

Dr. Ockershausen, of East Stroudsburg State College, showed a film from the American Cancer Society, "Is Smoking Worth It?", and commented on its use in the classroom. Included in the film material was the information that lung cancer has shown a 953% increase in the past 30 years and that the major cause of lung cancer is smoking.

Doctors Consultants
Drs. James C. Fahl and Elmo J. Lilli acted as consultants for the program. They expressed the desire that the teacher of junior high school students begin the program of cancer education and that this program be further developed by physicians in the 11th and 12th grades.

Both linked lung cancer and respiratory tract diseases to cigarette smoking, but stated that a definite causative agent has not been isolated. The early detection of all types of cancer was stressed.

Dr. Frank Sills, also of ESSC, also reported to the group on the comparative values of isometric and isotonic exercises in the development of muscular endurance. He reviewed an article from the December, 1962 Research Quarterly and stated that though this research has shown both methods to be of equal value in the development of endurance there is a need for further research.

Dr. Sills indicated that physical educators should be prepared to make practical application of the research that is being done in this area.

LV Welding Unit To Meet

THE Lehigh Valley Section of the American Welding Society will hold a dinner meeting at Walp's Restaurant in Allentown Monday at 6 p.m.

Following the dinner, a tour through the Homer Research Laboratory of Bethlehem Steel Co. will be made.

Newfoundland

NEWFOUNDLAND — Sterling Community Grange 2056 will sponsor a pancake supper beginning at 5 p.m. on March 30 at the grange hall. The last supper was "snowed in" with only a few brave souls attempting to reach the hall for the meal, which always features home made maple syrup from the Poonos; home made sausage and scrapple; and the hotcakes.

Many donations have been received both by the Gustafson family and the Lutz family in South Sterling, from the people in the communities, the churches, the area organizations, and the Salvation Army. The Gustafson family lost everything in a fire which leveled their home, owned by the Lutz family, who live next door.

THE TREE Climbers

Thought about climbing any trees lately? The tree climbers seem to belong to a very young segment of the population.

Why do you suppose most of us have outgrown that compelling urge to climb a tree? It used to make every trunk a challenge, every limb a precarious perch.

Well, we've discovered other challenges. And we've had our fill of precarious perches. Eventually a man turns his zest for triumph to more constructive purposes.

But, have you observed that many people seem to climb above the tiresome every-day level of life? And, strangely, they appear more secure challenging the roof of existence than those who cling to its floor.

The youthful compulsion which once made us tree climbers reaches maturity on a spiritual plane. Our God-given zest for triumph finds fulfillment in the quest of religious Faith... the challenge of Christian living! Start climbing next Sunday... in church!

EXCEPT FOR the famed Davis Cup play, tennis is among the unheralded sports, enjoying little of the attention which football and baseball receives. But the picture—in this area, at least—may soon be changed. At least if Dr. Charles Wolbers of East Stroudsburg State College has anything to say about it.

The man who came here in the autumn of 1961 from the State University College of Education at New Paltz, N. Y., already has the tennis gear rolling in full motion at college hill.

Dr. Wolbers, who is tennis instructor at ESSC in addition to serving as professor of physical education, is the coordinating supervisor of a national tennis school which will be held at the ESSC campus June 19-28.

Known as the Leighton-Barta National Tennis School, it is conducted by Harry (Cap) Leighton and Judy Barta, prominent members of the tennis world for their teaching, educating and authorship.

Dr. Wolbers also is a national figure in tennis circles, having served as an instructor in junior tennis development and other phases. He is a member of the Joint United States Lawn Tennis Association-American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation Committee. This committee joins physical educators with the top tennis organizations in the country in the promotion of tennis in schools and colleges. He has served on the Joint Committee since its inception in 1959.

The course in tennis being offered on the college campus this summer places its major emphasis on group methods, techniques and organization directed to the promotion and teaching of tennis in the school, college, recreation and camp program.

Instruction will run the gamut of beginning to advanced play. A special feature of the course this year will be a review of the current skill tests in addition to the extensive testing program being developed at East Stroudsburg State by the Graduate School in Physical Education.

The school will hold two four-day sessions. The first will begin the evening of June 19 and continue through the afternoon of June 23. The second session will begin the evening of June 24 and end on the afternoon of June 29.

Participating students will be limited to 90 members—45 for each session. Total cost per student—including room, board and registration—will be $80.

Dr. Wolbers' primary concern in this sport is to increase youthful participation in the game. As he wrote in a recent magazine article: "The more the youngsters come to the courts, the more they learn about the game, the more they will know what kind of magic keeps its devotees swinging rackets well into their advancing years and supporting it with all their hearts."

In his five years at New Paltz (1956-61), Dr. Wolbers coached tennis, soccer and basketball and was the founder of the Hudson River Valley tennis tournament, one of the summer highlights of the area.

He also instituted tennis, cross-country and junior varsity basketball as regular sports. In addition, he started a program of physical fitness testing for all college freshmen. And he fostered all-campus participation in sports through a strengthened intramural program and faculty recreation.

There is no denying the tremendous interest he created in tennis at New Paltz. And, given the time and opportunity, Dr. Wolbers may well duplicate this same feat in the community of East Stroudsburg. He has both the unending desire and ability.

And for the cynics who doubt it, take a trip to New Paltz some time this summer and visit the campus which now has six clay courts and is also open to the public. And don't worry if you get there after sundown. The lights are on until 10 p. m. and it is not uncommon to see a lineup of cars and the benches filled with spectators right up to closing time.

Cardinals Beat Ford

Drysdale Sharp; Dodgers Win

Right-hander Don Drysdale, the majors' winningest pitcher last season, went nine innings for the first time Friday, limiting Kansas City to six hits while his Los Angeles Dodgers teammates got 16 for a 12-1 exhibition victory.

While Drysdale, 25-9 last season, held the spotlight at Bradenton, two veteran left-handers—Whitely Ford of the New York Yankees and Milwaukee's Warren Spahn—were the focal point of attention at their camps.

Ford Loses

Ford, testing an injured shoulder which had limited his spring pitching to four innings, worked without pain for two innings but came up the loser as St. Louis knocked off the world champions 3-2 at Fort Lauderdale.

Spahn, working on a two-hitter for six innings in Milwaukee's 4-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox, was knocked out of the box in the seventh when he was hit on his pitching hand by Pete Ward's line drive. Examination revealed a bruised index finger.

The teams also tried to squeeze in a second game at West Palm Beach. It was called after six innings by darkness with the White Sox the winners 7-5.

Phillies Win

In other games, Philadelphia clipped Cincinnati 8-5 at Clearwater, Washington edged Minnesota 3-2 in 17 innings at Orlando, Baltimore whipped Pittsburgh 5-2 at Miami, Detroit took the New York Mets 8-5 in 10 innings at St. Petersburg, Boston belted San Francisco 10-7 at Phoenix, Cleveland nipped the Los Angeles Angels 2-1 at Palm Springs and Oklahoma City of the Pacific

Crows At Home With St. Nicks

CROWES Insurance bowling team returns to their home alleys tonight to face St. Nicks of Allentown in the Delaware Valley League action.

St. Nicks are still in the running for the crown and hope to get by the locals in one of three matches remaining.

The squad will consist of: Frank Belli, Oscar Stuckey, Tom Sommers, Jake Nittel and Russ Bergman.

Readers To Practice

The Readers team of the Pocono Mountain Baseball League will hold a practice session Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

In Title Fight

Carlos Ortiz 3-1 Favorite

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Confident Carlos Ortiz was a 3-1 favorite Friday to retain his world lightweight title against the challenge of Cuban contender Doug Vaillant in Hiram Bithorn Stadium Saturday night.

This is the second defense for the 26-year-old New Yorker who was born in Puerto Rico and came to the United States when he was nine years old.

Realizes Dream

"It's always been my dream to come back to Puerto Rico and fight for a world championship," said Ortiz. "Part of the dream is that I win and that I'm confident I will."

The fight is the first title affair in the world since featherweight king Davey Moore suffered fatal injuries in the loss of his crown to Sugar Ramos, another exiled Cuban, at Los Angeles, March 21.

Puerto Rico officials, aware that the attention of the world will be focused on the island's first championship contest in 24 years, have taken extra safety measures in an effort to guard against any serious injuries.

Four Doctors

The Parks and Recreation Administration, which governs all sports in Puerto Rico, has assigned four doctors—one for each corner—to the fight.

Jimmy Braddock, the former world heavyweight champion, will be the referee. The judges will be Nat Fleischer, editor of Ring Magazine and a veteran official, and Rafael Carrasquillo of Puerto Rico.

Ortiz has a 39-4 record, including 13 knockouts. Vaillant, 25, has a 28-6-4 record, including 15 kayos. Neither has been stopped.

Kenya Offers Excellent Fishing Area

By John Collier

MOMBASA, Kenya (AP) — The Padded chair was comfortable. The sun was warm. I dozed as the boat drove through the gentle swell of the Indian ocean, my hand on the reel of the fishing rod slotted into the side of the chair.

A tap on the shoulder from Saidi, the boatman, brought my eyes to my bait, skipping over the water like a flying fish, feathering the water.

A lunge, and the bait vanished. By this time the rod was in my hands. The reel screamed, my companion shouted, I shouted—and the battle with the sailfish was on.

The fight lasted more than half an hour. The fish headed 100 yards out to the ocean. Then the line went slack as it turned, charging for the boat. The fiberglass rod bent like a bow as the sailfish ran deep.

Finally, the fish tired and was hauled to the gaff—80 pounds of sleek, silvery green fury. A small sailfish—but my first.

These sailfish, plus marlin, tunny and barracuda run in hundreds just beyond the 100 fathom mark, rarely more than five miles off Kenya's 250 miles of shoreline.

Only in the last year or two, however, has there been any development to enable tourists to try their hand at big game fishing. Previously this was the exclusive preserve of millionaire sportsmen.

Now, there are facilities from Malindi to Mombasa for those with the slim purse.

Candy Spots Is Heavily Favored

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Rex C. Ellis' unbeaten Candy Spots goes after his sixth victory Saturday in the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park with seven 3-year-old colts opposing him.

The strapping chestnut son of Nigromante out of Candy Dish will have Willie Shoemaker riding and may be even money or less with the anticipated crowd of 25,000.

The 12th running of the 1 1/4 miles feature attracted, in addition to the glamorous California colts, such promising youngsters as Cool Prince, Sky Gem, Sky

Wonder, King Toots, B. Major, Hot Dust and Gray Pet.

Fast Track

A fast track was expected. A triumph for Candy Spots would strengthen his support for the Kentucky Derby and boost his earnings to $336,812, including $74,700 as the winner's share from a Florida Derby gross of $114,700.

It also would enroll him alongside such thoroughbreds as Nashua, Needles, Gen. Duke, Tim Tam, Carry Back and Ridan, who have won this feature.

William G. Helis Jr.'s Cool Prince figures to give Candy Spots his toughest competition, off his recent triumph in the Fountain of Youth Stakes at 1 1/4 miles. Jimmy Combs will ride Cool Prince.

Third Attempt

Sky Gem, under Braulio Baeza, represents Fred W. Hooper's third attempt at the Florida Derby. His Crozier was beaten a head by Carry Back in 1961 and Admiral's Voyage was third behind Ridan and Cicada last year.

Mrs. Charles D. Morgan's Sky Wonder, with Bob Ussery, also will draw considerable support and a win by either of the "Sky" horses would be no novelty. Sky Ship won the first running of this Derby in 1952.

The others and their riders are Red Oak Stable's King Toots with Howard Grant, Elmendorf's B. Major with Jacinto Vasquez, Mrs. Alfred J. Giordano's Hot Dust with William Harmatz, and Walnut Hill Farms' Gray Pet with Avelino Gomez. King Toots is a son of Needles, the 1956 winner.

The owner of the land, Joseph Taylor of North Versailles Twp., said a real estate man representing him quoted an unidentified Pirate official as saying the site "has definite possibilities for a stadium."

Taylor offered the farm site for $3,000 an acre, or a total of $488,000, the paper said.

Lie Test Indicates Burnett Told Truth

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia's top investigative officer said Friday a state lie detector test indicated George P. Burnett has told the truth about allegedly overhearing a telephone conversation linked to football-fix charges.

Gave Secrets

In its March 23 issue, the Post said Burnett accidentally overheard Wallace Butts, former Georgia athletic director, give Burnett a polygraph test by Maj. B. G. Garsdale, chief of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, as part of a state probe of Saturday Evening Post allegations.

Butts and Burnett have denied the charges. As Burnett took the lie test, Butts, and his attorneys met with Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook. Butts told newsmen he never had been Georgia's football director, gave Burnett a polygraph test by Maj. B. G. Garsdale, chief of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, as part of a state probe of Saturday Evening Post allegations.

Bragan Looks For Club To Improve

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—When Bobby Bragan was hired to manage the Milwaukee Braves last fall he knew he had a young pitching staff in the making. He also knew his biggest problem would be his outfield. Nothing has changed much during spring training.

Bragan inherited the Braves after they had finished fifth, 15 1/2 games back, and were in the midst of a rebuilding program. Brush Bobby, an outspoken man who managed at Pittsburgh and Cleveland and coached the Los Angeles Dodgers and Houston Colts was brought in to inject some new life into a drab situation. He is doing his level best to pep up the Braves.

Should Be Better

"I think the club should be better," said Bragan. "Eddie Mathews had a sub-par year in 1962 (off 41 points to .265 but with 29 homers and 90 runs batted in). And the young pitchers have passed the test of the first year."

Then he proceeded to run down the list where improvement was to be expected.

"Tony Cloninger had an 8-3 record," he said. "You have to figure him for at least 10. Bob Hendley won 11. He should be good for 13 or 14. And Lew Burdette (10-9) has looked the best he has in many years. He had a 17-inning streak with no earned runs and no walks. I told him right from the beginning he was going to be a starter again."

"The one thing that I have learned about this club in the first six weeks is that those young pitchers are really outstanding. I mean Cloninger, Hendley, Denny Lemaster and Claude Raymond."

Bragan counts on 42-year-old Warren Spahn (18-14), Bob Shaw (15-9), Cloninger, Hendley and Burdette as his starters with Lemaster (3-4) ready to step in. For the bullpen, he has Frank Funk, acquired in a trade with Cleveland for Joe Adcock.

Infield Set

Three-fourths of the infield is set with Frank Bolling at second, Roy McMillan at short and Mathews at third. Tommy Aaron combined with gambling interests. In another development Cook said he would not appear before an Alabama legislative committee which has started an investigation of the Post allegations.

"It is the opinion of the examiner that George Price Burnett was truthful in his answers," Ragsdale reported to Cook who had asked Burnett to take the test.

Took Notes

Ragsdale said Burnett, an Atlanta insurance salesman, denied any attempt to frame or blackmail Butts or Bryant. Burnett has said he took notes of information Butts allegedly was giving to Bryant.

The Post said Butts and Bryant were in collusion to rig the Sept. 22 game. The magazine said Burnett heard Butts giving detailed information about Georgia plays and players.

Depot Names Candidate For U.S. Award

TOBYHANNA Army Depot employee Miss Jane O'Hara, of 2006 Electric St., Dunmore, has been nominated for the Federal Woman's Award. Nomination was made by the U.S. Army Supply and Maintenance Command.

The award is given annually to four Government career women who have demonstrated outstanding ability and achievement in executive, professional, scientific or technical positions. Minimum grade for eligibility is GS-9.

Judges of the contest this year are David Brinkley, news commentator, National Broadcasting Company; Katharine McBride, president of Bryn Mawr College; Betty Furness, actress and television personality, and H. Ladd Plumley, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Miss O'Hara was recommended by her supervisor, Murray Blumman, Tobyhanna, chief of the Systems Engineering Office. In his letter, Blumman wrote, in part: "Miss O'Hara is the highest-rated female employee at the Tobyhanna Army Depot. As Chief of the Systems Development Branch, she supervises one of the Depot's most important units."

Directs All-Male Group
"She directs an all-male group of highly technical and competent personnel. Her knowledge, skill and extreme tact have won for her the complete respect of her subordinates."

Miss O'Hara, who has 18 years Federal service, is a graduate of the Dunmore High School, and has also taken numerous Government-sponsored courses in her field.

She was cited for sustained superior performance in 1960. Last year she received an "outstanding" rating, the highest issued in U. S. Civil Service.

More than 60 candidates have been nominated for the four awards. Presentations will be made at an Award Banquet in Washington, D. C., on May 2.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to show you your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every key number off to the right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Storm Of Protest Brews Over 'Forced' School Merger

A STORM of protest against "forced" mergers of smaller school districts is rising throughout Pennsylvania, according to Philip C. Pendleton, of Jenkintown, executive director of Citizens for the Preservation of Local Control of Schools.

In testimony before hearings conducted by the Joint Senate and House Committee on Education in Harrisburg, Pendleton said forced mergers would set a dangerous precedent.

He testified on behalf of more than 1000 members of the association who live in 42 counties of the Commonwealth.

Pendleton opposed Senate Bill 179, designed as a substitute for Act 561, the controversial law passed during the Lawrence Administration. He said that 179 is nearly as bad as 561 and that his group is in favor of outright repeal.

Local PSES Is Available For Pre-Easter Employees

AREA merchants seeking workers to help handle their pre-Easter trade were reminded yesterday by John P. Dougherty, manager of the Stroudsburg Local Office of Pennsylvania's Bureau of Employment Security, to use the facilities of his office.

Dougherty pointed out that the local BES office maintains lists of qualified workers in all fields. He added that persons are registered both for full-time and part-time jobs.

According to Dougherty, using additional qualified sales, clerical and stock personnel during peak seasons and rush hours benefits businessmen both directly and indirectly.

Wholesalers and retailers who use temporary help when they need it are able to give their customers prompt and better service, Dougherty said. Such service attracts repeat orders from and additional visits by the same customers, he added. At the same time, persons working temporarily earn money which they will use for their own purchases, thereby benefiting area businessmen.

Dougherty urged persons seeking temporary employment during the Easter season to register with the Stroudsburg Local Office, 408 Main Street, as soon as possible. Pointing out that as a government agency, the Stroudsburg BES Office charges no fee for its services, Dougherty reminded housewives and students that the money they earn helping others purchase their Easter wardrobes may prepare them for their own appearance in the Easter parade.

Does Your Wife Keep The Family Savings Outside Your Own Bank?

(Read How This Can Alter
Your Financial Future)

See if this sounds familiar: You keep the family checking account at a Full Service commercial bank. Your wife, who's in charge of the family savings, goes to another type of financial institution (one that may pay a slightly higher return). When you want to borrow a little money, you're off to still a third source. In short, your important money matters are spread all over town — they're everybody's business, and nobody's.

YOUR FULL SERVICE BANK IS THE BEST PLACE TO BORROW

Now suppose you want to buy a new car or take a trip or—more important—pay for the children's college education or take advantage of a lucrative business opportunity. Where do you borrow the sizable sum of money you need? Your Full Service commercial bank is the logical place to borrow since it makes all types of loans at rates generally lower than you find anywhere else.

The BIG question is: Does the bank know you well enough to lend you this much money? There's not much doubt that they would if you're an established, full-time customer. They'd know about your savings account that's been building over the years; your long-standing friendship with the people at the bank.

GET TO KNOW YOUR BANKER BEFORE YOU NEED HIM

Do you see our point now? When you're ready to make a major financial move, there's only one type of financial institution that can help you in every way. That institution is a Full Service commercial bank. If you've made such a bank your financial headquarters over the years—checking account, savings account, all your loans—there's seldom any difficulty in borrowing low-interest money to accomplish the things you want for yourself and your family.

If your money matters are scattered all over town, you would certainly be wise to consolidate them in a Full Service commercial bank. It could well be the wisest thing you ever did for your financial future.
